The following information is an extract from the Department of Health and Human Services Information for the Public – Novel Coronavirus

What areas are a risk for novel coronavirus?

The situation is changing rapidly as more people are identified with this infection. At the current time, most cases are associated to people who have travelled to Wuhan City, Hubei Province, China. If other cities, areas or countries become places where there is a significant risk, the Department will update resources like Frequently Asked Questions to advise which areas are a significant risk.

How do I protect myself and my family?

The easiest way to protect yourself and your family is to pay attention to good hand hygiene and respiratory hygiene.

Cover your mouth and nose when coughing and sneezing with a tissue, or cough into your elbow, dispose of the tissue into a bin and then wash your hands afterwards. Wash your hands regularly, after using the toilet and before eating.

If you have concerns about your health, please see your doctor.

Healthcare workers are recommended to consistently apply appropriate infection prevention control measures when looking after patients.

Do I need to wear a face mask?

Face masks are not recommended for use by members of the public in Victoria for the prevention of infections like novel coronavirus. Should any health professional be required to treat a suspected or confirmed case, they will be supported by following standard infection control guidelines.
